Cornwallis Elt raises £1,300 for Macmillan Cancer Support!

Not satisfied with his Tour de France achievement, Tim Skelding entered the Circuit of Kent sportive to raise money for the Macmillan Cancer Support charity.

The route – 140km through ‘the Garden of England’ – was a testing one finishing with the climb of all climbs, Carters Hill! All riders were given a time based on age and gender and could try for a gold, silver or bronze standard. Tim had set a target of 5 hours to raise maximum sponsorship which would have been a Bronze award. Tim came in with a time of 4:29 achieving a Silver award!!

Commenting Tim said “I am delighted with the result, it was a great day, the weather was fantastic and Carter’s Hill a real killer!”.

By smashing his target, Tim raised an impressive £1,326 for this worthy charity.
